Dear Penn Alumni and Friends,

Join Art History Professor André Dombrowski and fellow Penn alumni on an exclusively chartered, Five-Star small ship cruise along the coasts of France and Great Britain. This often overlooked yet hugely important route of historic ports contributed to the progress of shaping the great continent of Europe that we know today. The cruise will end in a grand finale sail up the River Thames into the heart of London, where your ship will overnight beneath the illustrious Tower Bridge. This one-of-a-kind itinerary features two great empires that have been bound together for centuries by trade, culture, proximity, and their intertwined lineage of kings and queens. Begin in Bordeaux where Eleanor of Aquitaine married King Louis VII of France. Then call at St. Malo, the maritime port where explorer Jacques Cartier was born in 1491 and later set off for the New World.

A highlight will be your experience on the hallowed beaches of Normandy with special guest speaker Dwight David Eisenhower II, Director of the Institute for Public Service at Penn’s Annenberg School for Communication and grandson of General and President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces during World War II. Here you’ll hear firsthand from Eisenhower how the course of world history was altered on these beaches with the historic D-Day landings in 1944. Call on Belle-Île-en-Mer, famously painted by Claude Monet, and Guernsey Island, loyal to the British crown but strong in French culture, where the old Norman language is still spoken today.

En route, aboard the exclusively chartered Five Star M.S. L’AUSTRAL, enjoy academic lectures from your faculty host André Dombrowski as you explore the arts of the region together. Together you will also explore three UNESCO World Heritage sites: the magnificent fortified Mont-St-Michel and its impressive abbey, the outstanding 18th-century architecture in Bordeaux, and the impressive 17th-century citadel on Belle-Île-en-Mer, built by military architect Vauban to defend the borders of France during the reign of King Louis XIV.

I am also pleased to offer a unique opportunity to combine this voyage with a preceding seven-night cruise on the M.S. L’AUSTRAL from Lisbon to Bordeaux, calling at Oporto, Santiago de Compostela, Bilbao, Biarritz, and La Rochelle. Unpack once and explore the entire coastline of Western Europe! More information is available upon request.

I encourage you to make your plans early and reserve now while space and Early Booking Savings are available for this very special offer.

Study Leader

André Dombrowski is Associate Professor in the History of Art, having joined the faculty at Penn in 2008. His research centers on the arts and material cultures of France and Germany in the mid to late-19th century. He has written on such crucial artists as Cézanne, Manet, Monet, and Degas, and he is especially concerned with the social and intellectual rationales behind the emergence of avant-garde painting in the 1860s and 1870s, including Impressionism. Professor Dombrowski received his Ph.D. from UC Berkeley in 2006, and holds an M.A. from the University of Hamburg and another from London’s Courtauld Institute of Art. He has been awarded a J. Paul Getty Postdoctoral Fellowship for 2008-09 and membership in the School of Historical Studies, Institute for Advanced Study, in Princeton for 2012-13, among other honors.
The Reigning Emblem of Western Europe

The fleur-de-lis, a stylized emblem of a lily flower said to signify perfection, light and life, has been recognized as a symbol of the French monarchy as far back as 1060. Its appearance in England began with the beguiling story of Eleanor of Aquitaine—one of the most powerful women in the history of Western Europe—who served almost consecutively as Queen of France then Queen of England for 50 years, married first to King Louis VII of France then to King Henry II of England. With her second marriage in 1154, the city of Bordeaux came under English rule, remaining a flourishing English port, rich from the wine trade, for 300 years. Many years later, the distant grandson of Queen Eleanor, King Edward III of England and rightful heir to the French throne, adopted the fleur-de-lis onto the English coat of arms when he declared himself King of France in 1340.

Today, traces of this interlaced history are found throughout the captivating ports we will visit. The fleur-de-lis appears on Bordeaux’s coat of arms, and the city motto “Seule la fleur-de-lis règne sur la lune, les vagues, le château et le lion” (the fleur-de-lis alone rules over the moon, the waves, the castle and the lion) suggests the power shift between France and England for hundreds of years. Found on the flags both of St. Malo and Belle-Île-en-Mer, and crowning the British monarchy’s gilded gates surrounding Buckingham Palace in London, the fleur-de-lis remains an eternal symbol of royalty associated with Western Europe that is recognized the world over.

Bordeaux
Monday, April 25

Port de la Lune, built on a bend of the Garonne River shaped like a crescent moon, is the lovely port city and UNESCO World Heritage site of Bordeaux, a veritable delight of enlightenment-age architecture and one of the oldest trading ports in France. Known the world over for its extraordinary wines, Bordeaux’s wine trade began during Roman times and expanded rapidly after the discovery of the New World. The resulting vast accumulation of wealth built the magnificent city that stands today. See the 18th-century Place de la Bourse and the beautiful 14th-century Porte Cailhau, the original gate to the city. See the 13th-century Cathedral of Saint Andre, where Eleanor of Aquitaine married Louis VII, King of France, then see the charming 18th-century riverfront where the wine trade began.

Join the Captain on board the ship for the Welcome Reception this evening.

See the charming island community of Le Palais and visit the 18th-century Citadel, a UNESCO World Heritage site built by the preeminent military architect, Sébastien Le Prestre de Vauban. Admire the unique beauty of the island’s stunning Côte Sauvage, which has inspired artists from the time of Romans and medieval monks to French Impressionist painter Claude Monet and author Alexandre Dumas in his adventures of The Three Musketeers.

French writer Victor Hugo lived here from 1855 until 1870 while he penned his epic novel, Les Misérables. St. Malo, France, for Mont-St-Michel

Thursday, April 28

The UNESCO World Heritage site of Mont-St-Michel is one of the most awe-inspiring sights in all of France—its spectacular, soaring spires rise majestically from a tidal plain seemingly suspended above the sea. A pilgrimage site since the early eighth century, this fortified village began as a humble oratory and grew into an influential Benedictine monastery between the 12th and 13th centuries, becoming a renowned medieval center of learning. Experience the extraordinary beauty of its cloisters, refectory, stained-glass windows and... the Abbaye du Mont-St-Michel, a three story Gothic masterpiece known as La Merveille (The Miracle) since the 12th century.

Allied forces landed at the beaches of Normandy on June 6, 1944, launching the D-Day invasion.

There can be no more fitting way to pay tribute to the Allied Forces, whose courageous D-Day invasion changed the course of World War II, than to walk on the historic beaches of Normandy liberated by American, Canadian and British forces. It is a privilege to have David Eisenhower, our expert historian who is personally familiar with one of the most powerful world leaders of the 20th century and World War II, present a dynamic lecture and accompany this profound visit to the beaches of Normandy.

Dwight David Eisenhower II, grandson of General and President Dwight D. Eisenhower, is a noted historian of World War II and the Cold War. His 900-page best seller, Eisenhower: At War 1943-1945, published in 1986, was a finalist for the Pulitzer Prize in history.

David is Senior Fellow of the Foreign Policy Research Institute and a Public Policy Fellow at the Annenberg School of Communication and the School of Arts and Sciences at the University of Pennsylvania, where he teaches “Communication and the Presidency.”

The Normandy Beaches

In a pivotal moment in the history and culture of Europe’s Atlantic coastal regions, on June 6, 1944, Supreme Allied Commander Dwight Eisenhower gave the order for 133,000 Allied troops to land along a 50-mile stretch of heavily-fortified French coastline. The invasion, known as Operation Overlord, was supported by 7000 ships and 11,000 aircraft, and by day’s end, had gained the Allies a foothold on the continent to begin their march to free Europe. A portal to the region that altered the new world order, the beaches of Normandy bring history to life.
